The Property

A beautifully presented Victorian terraced house arranged over four floors.

Entering the house on the raised ground floor, you step into a generous reception room with high ceilings, large windows filling the space with light, and an attractive stone fireplace as a focal point. This level also features dining space and an office with access to a balcony overlooking the street.

The Kitchen

Descending to the lower ground floor reveals the heart of the home - an impressive kitchen featuring fitted units, gas cooking, and a central island with bar seating. The kitchen provides ample dining space and flows seamlessly to large glass doors opening directly onto the garden. A separate reception room offers additional living space, while a practical utility room provides storage and workspace.

The Principal Bedroom

The first floor accommodates the principal bedroom, a well-proportioned room with high ceilings, built-in storage, and access to a balcony. The ensuite bathroom features twin sinks. This level also includes a guest bathroom and separate WC.

Further Bedrooms

The second floor houses three further bedrooms and a shower room, providing flexible accommodation for family and guests.

Outdoor Spaces

The property includes a delightful south-west facing garden, providing space for outdoor dining and entertaining in this sought-after Chelsea location.

The Neighbourhood

Langton Street is a quiet residential address in the heart of Chelsea, moments away from the King's Road with its upmarket boutiques and many restaurants. The open spaces of Battersea Park are within easy reach, while Sloane Square underground station provides excellent transport connections across London. The area offers access to some of London's finest cultural attractions and the sophisticated shopping of Chelsea.
